TUOLUMNE COUNTY ARCHIVE BUILDING, SONORA, CALIFORNIA

County office expansions over the past several years have caused various archival documents and artifacts to be displaced. The county decided to construct a facility to accommodate its own needs and those of other government agencies in need of archival storage space. A new 6,912 square foot facility was planned adjacent to the County Library.

Our firm provided complete design work for the new facility, including construction documents, construction observation and an on-site review a year after construction was complete.

The new Archive Building was completed December 22, 1999.
